BASEBALL TEAM BEATS DREW, 2-0, LOSES TO UNION BY 6-5 SCORE IN THRILLING GAMES

Hamilton Wins Fifth Victory of This Season

KELLOGG SHINES

Blanks Drew with Two Hits; Pitchers Weaken in Union Victory

After defeating Drew University, 2-0, on Friday in as fine an exhibition of baseball seen on the home field this season, the Buff and Blue nine traveled to Schenectady on Saturday and bowed, 6-5, before a Union aggregation, after having led the Garnet squad until the second half of the eighth inning.

Two runs squeezed out by the Hamilton nine from the smoothly clicking Drew nine were good enough to win behind Ed Kellogg's fine twirling and five Hamilton hits. Kellogg, starting his first game in college, gave up only two hits to the visitors and came through with plenty to spare for his 2-0 victory, the Hillmen's fifth triumph in six starts this season. It was a mound duel all the way, with Sutton, Drew southpaw ace, striking out 10 Hill batters and Kellogg mowing down 7 of the visitors. It was the visitors' first defeat in two years.

Both teams were scoreless until the seventh inning when Millham threw the first two Drew batters out at first and the third took three strikes to retire the side. Bicknell's long hit went for three bases when R. Smith, in right field, committed his team's only error. Harding's liner was snagged by Marcial at short, but Shinn's sacrifice bunt scored Bicknell and the Hill first sacker reached first himself. Glendening's neat single advanced Shinn to second and Morrow drew a base on balls, filling the sacks. Shinn scored on White's sacrifice bunt, but Sutton touched out Glendening as the Hill right fielder came home. Kellogg struck out, but Hamilton's two runs were good enough to win.

Scoring one run in the first frame on Harding's hit and four more in the seventh on as many errors, Hamilton came close to winning its sixth ball game on Saturday until trouble in the pitcher's box gave the Schenectady team three runs in the eighth inning, tieing the score, and a long hit in the last half of the ninth period by Bush stole the contest from the Hillmen. Betts started on the mound for Hamilton but weakened in the fifth, to be replaced by Glendening, who saw service until Union's three-run rally in the eighth brought Bicknell off the mound. Kellogg finished the contest for the visitors, but could not stave off the hitting splurge of the home nine.

Hamilton scored first, Millham counting after walking on Harding's double. In the third Union scored once as Cadwallader crossed from third on Reed's center field fly. In the fifth Cadwallader scored again, after walking, advancing to second on Clarke's sacrifice, and touching third on Fiore's infield hit. He tallied on Millham's error. In the seventh Hamilton scored four times on errors. Bicknell was safe on Clarke's miscue. Harding was safe on an error by the third baseman. Shinn's sacrifice advanced both. Bicknell and Harding reached home on a squeeze play, Gummerson sacrificing. Morrow scored the third run after getting safe on an infield hit. White scored on a pass ball before Sliter grounded out and retired the side.

Union came back in the eighth with three runs. Loomis ran out an infield hit and advanced on Shinn's error. Griswold walked and Stevenson batted both in with his single. Stevenson scored as Cadwallader flied out to center. In the ninth, after Bush singled to center, Stevenson batted him in

GOLF TEAM WINS OVER ROCHESTER

Beats Flower City Team Here by 6-1 Score; Governs, Edwards Win

The Buff and Blue golf team turned in its fifth victory of the season by defeating a squad from the University of Rochester, 6-1, in a match played here on Saturday afternoon, May 19. There were five individual matches instead of the usual four, with Hubbell playing fifth man for Hamilton.

Dunc Edwards, playing the number 1 position for Hamilton, won his match from Johnson of Rochester, 3 and 2. Dick Govern, shooting a 67, came out on top in the number two match, defeating Lyon, 6 and 4. The best ball match also went to Hamilton, Edwards and Govern conquering their opponents, 6 and 4.

Fred Govern, Hamilton number 3 man, playing an excellent game of golf, turned in a card of 64, defeating Wicks of Rochester 6 and 5. The visitors secured their only point in the fourth match, when, after playing two extra holes, Murphy lost to White 1 down. In the last match, Hubbell proved his worth by downing Hughes, 3 and 2. The second best ball match ended, 3 and 2, in favor of the Buff and Blue men.

Was Los Taps Six Men In Initiation

Was Los, junior honorary society, completed its annual initiation ceremonies on Friday, with the tapping of Seabury Smith Gould, the sixth and last member of his class to be selected. Others subjected to the public initiation rites were: Warren Ray Montgomery, Jr., Richmond Barbour Millham, Ira Deyo LeFevre, William Spencer Doig, and Sydney DeAzevedo, all tapped in the order named.

Warren Montgomery, of Buffalo, new president of the society by virtue of his selection as first man from the class of 1936, is affiliated with Alpha Delta Phi fraternity, and is a member of the hockey and soccer squads. Richmond Millham, of Rochester, is a member of the basketball and baseball squads, and recently received the Donald C. Hiler basketball award. He is associated with Delta Kappa Epsilon. Ira LeFevre, of Albany, the second Alpha Delt on the list has participated in both football and track this year. William Doig, of Broklyn, who is affiliated with Chi Psi, is a member of the football, hockey, track, and lacrosse squads. Sydney DeAzevedo, of Rutherford, N. J., a member of the track and soccer squads, is associated with Theta Delta Chi. Seabury Gould, regular center on this year's successful football team, is also a member of the hockey and lacrosse squads, and is affiliated with Sigma Phi.

DeAzevedo, Doig, LeFevre, and Millham, are members of both D. T., and Quadrangle, sophomore and freshman honorary societies. Warren Montgomery is associated with D. T., and Seabury Gould, of Senaca Falls, was last year's Quadrangle president.

BOOK OF SCOLLARD POEMS IS PUBLISHED

"The Singing Heart," a volume of Clinton Scollard's selected lyrics, has recently been issued by the Macmillan Company. The collection has been edited by Mrs. Jessie Rittenhouse Scollard, Mr. Scollard's widow, who has also written an introduction. The volume was favorably reviewed in last Sunday's "Times".

As a representation of Scollard's work as a whole, "The Singing Heart" does not show the diversity of the poet's talents. However, the difficult task of selection has been carefully done.

TENNIS SQUAD TROUNCES ST. LAWRENCE, 5-2

Capt. Miner Absent But Team Wins 4 Singles

TO CLOSE SEASON

Matches with Colgate and Union This Week Will Conclude Year

The Hamilton College tennis team scored its second triumph of the season last Wednesday when they decisively trounced St. Lawrence, 5-2. The Hill netmen were handicapped by the loss of Captain Miner who is out with a wrenched knee. G. Smith and Romig played in the doubles in place of the other regulars.

The Buff and Blue courtmen cinched the match by copping four out of the five singles matches. Osterhout, No. 1 man, trimmed Blight of St. Lawrence, 6-4, 6-3. Before Babcock, Hamilton, could clinch his match with Donaghy, he had to go three sets, two of which went for extra games, to win, 3-6, 9-7, 7-5. Weld registered the most decisive victory for the Hillmen in the singles when he routed VanHeusen, 6-0, 6-0.

The most gruelling match was played by Scanlan of Hamilton and Evans of St. Lawrence. The contest went three sets, the last set requiring 30 games, before Evans could whip the Hill player by the score, 1-6, 6-4, 16-14. Carruth continued his wins from the week before and with little effort defeated Smith, St. Lawrence, 6-1, 6-0.

The doubles matches were split between the two teams. Weld teamed up with Romig, and together they easily beat the St. Lawrence team of VanHeusen and Evans, 6-0, 6-2. St. Lawrence won the other doubles match when Blight and Donaghy combined to vanquish G. Smith and Rutherford in a contest which went three sets to finish, 6-1, 6-8, 6-4.

The Hill netmen have a tough week ahead of them. On May 24 they will play the Colgate team here on their home courts. Saturday the team will travel to Union for the final contest of the year. Both opposing teams have strong squads and the Buff and Blue squad will have plenty to contend with in each match.

Bonham Gives Address At History Meeting

At the regular meeting of the History Club which was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Dr. Milledge L. Bonham, the members enjoyed a speech by Dr. Bonham on "The Election of 1860."

Following the talk by Dr. Bonham, there was held an election of officers for the year 1934-1935. James A. Rockwell, '35, was elected president; William J. Chase, '36, vice president; and James E. Moore, '35, was chosen secretary.

James H. Thorp, '34, last year's president, presided and introduced the speaker. Dr. Bonham discussed the various factions within the Democratic party in 1860, and their struggle to control the national convention. He pointed out the fact that Uew York State held an important position in the decisions which were reached at this convention. In the organization of the convention, the New York delegation voted for a set of rules which so hopelessly split the ticket, that it made it possible for Stephen A. Dougles, whom they were supporting, to be nominated. However, for fifty-three ballots, the voters deadlocked by casting all their ballots for Douglas. Then the convention adjourned, never to meet as a united party again that year.

The New York state delegates to the Republican convention were solid for Seward, but the New York leaders were too zealous in their efforts to nominate him. Lincoln was finally nominated and elected.

Finals in Soft Ball Scheduled for May 29

Today class teams completed the final stanza of the interclass soft ball games for the year when the last round of games was played. The seniors played the juniors and the sophomores took on the freshmen. The games were played too late to permit the printing of the scores, but up until today the sophomores were tied with the juniors for first place. The freshmen were in third position while the seniors held down fourth place. The standing was as follows:

	Won	Lost
Seniors	1	3
Juniors	2	1

Interfraternity soft ball ends the regular schedule tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 p. m., when the D.U. plays the Theta Delt, Alpha Delt stacks up against E.L.S., the Dekes take on Psi U., and Beta Kappa meets Lambda Chi.

The games scheduled for Sunday afternoon were cancelled because of the wet fields, and those teams will have to make arrangements to play before May 27 when the semi-finals will be run off.

In the only games played this week, the Neutrals took over the Alpha Delts by the score of 24 to 21, and Beta Kappa fell before the heavy slugging of the Tekes 15 to 3.

Coach Weber is planning to have the semi-finals played Sunday afternoon, May 27, and the finals on Tuesday, May 29, if the weather permits.

Winners Have Nine Firsts in Easy Victory

ROCHESTER THIRD

Second-Place Favorites Are Beaten Out by Buff And Blue

Aggregating a total of 88½ points, Alfred University captured the New York State Intercollegiate Conference track crown at Steuben Field on Saturday afternoon. Hamilton, holder of the Conference title for the past four years, turned in a splendid performance to annex an unexpected second place by virtue of a 57-point total. Rochester, favored to defeat the Buff and Blue, placed third with 51½ point, St. Lawrence trailing with a meager 22-point total.

Coach Arthur R. Winters' team took advantage of the five-place scoring system in gaining all their points without taking a single first, and annexing only four second places. First place honors went to Alfred, with nine, Rochester gaining three, and St. Lawrence two. Dube, of Hamilton, in taking an officially-scored second in the 100-yard dash, came closer than any other Hamilton man to gaining a first, by running what many thought to be a dead heat with Hodges, of Alfred.

Six former Conference records fell during the course of the afternoon, and one was equalled. Marks which fell included the shot put, discus, mile run, relay, and 440-yard dash records. Clarke, of Alfred, and Phillips, of Rochester, turned in two of the best individual performances of the day, the former taking first in the pole vault, high jump, and broad jump, and the latter, a sophomore, winning both the mile and the half-mile runs, taking the longer race in 4:24, breaking the Conference record by 5.6 seconds. Oldfield, of Alfred, who placed second in the mile, also bettered the old record.

Hamilton's four second places were collected by Latham, in the pole vault, Dube, in the 100 and 220-yard dashes, and Beakes, in the 220-yard low hurdles. Avery's performance in the mile relay, after starting out on the last lap yards behind the third man, and steadily gaining to provide Hamilton with a third in that event, brought to a close a surprisingly successful day for the Buff and Blue tracksters.

The summary:

Track Events

A Significant Incident Indeed!

The editorial appearing in this morning's Utica "Daily Press", entitled "A Significant Incident", demands an answer, in order that the position of the Hamilton College Political Science Club may be clearly and fairly stated. Howard B. White, president of the club, stated in an interview today that the purpose of the group was to join in the Memorial Day parade carrying peace banners of a conservative nature, banners which would be submitted to the Memorial Day Commission for approval. They had not the slightest notion or desire to stage a Communist demonstration of a showy or disagreeable sort. They simply wanted to represent the attitude of a large group of thinking college students throughout our country who are uncompromisingly opposed to war and all the horror attendant upon it. Mr. White stated this as the club's purpose when he appeared before the Memorial Day Commission last week. The Commission promised to consider the club's application and to notify the group of its decision. However, the first intimation that its petition was refused was the "Press" editorial of this morning.

It seems that the Utica Memorial Day parade is to be a "Preparedness Demonstration," since it is the opinion of the Commission that our national defenses are not adequate at the present time. The Commission felt that the presence of the Hamilton group would "offend many of the paraders and a large section of the public" besides diminishing the effectiveness of its "preparedness" sentiment. Consequently, the Hill Pacifists will be barred from participating in the Memorial Day program.

We cannot help but feel that this action is unjustified and indefensible. Yet it is the sort of thing that collegiate workers for Pacifism must expect. They need not look for a great deal of sympathy or real understanding from established organizations. The Smith girls discovered that last Memorial Day when they followed a belligerent American Legion parade with Pacifist banners, and spent the evening in the Northhampton jail as the result.

However, it is not, that as a college generation, we are unappreciative of the sacrifices made by the men who fought the World War, as the "Press" editorial seems to imply. We feel this debt as deeply as our elders do. Yet our Pacifism springs from our desire to make such sacrifices unnecessary in the future. We do not feel that the way to end war is to back a program for "preparedness" and to spend billions on our national defense.

Consequently we can only hope that if the Political Science Group has been denied a place in the Utica parade, it will stage a Pacifist Program here on the Hill. It wi l certainly reflect the stand of a large share of our student body toward the future of war.

Five o'clock Baseball Games

The practice followed this spring of having week-day baseball games begin at or after five o'clock in the afternoon is, to say the least, decidedly annoying for the great majority of the student body. A game begun at five ends about seven—in other words, long after the dinner hour in the fraternity houses. For those who eat in Commons, and whose dining hours are therefore more irregular, it is possible to see the finish of most games of ordinary length, but for the fraternity man it is a choice between dinner and the last three innings—and a man must eat!

The baseball team has had an unusually successful season so far, and it is only fair to it and to the student body to give members of the team with last hour classes cuts in those classes. To do would make it possible for the student body to see the entire game—assuming that the game is of ordinary length, of course, for a game begun at four-thirty will ordinarily end in time for six-thirty dinner.

And so, wth but one more home game left before the close of the season, we should like to suggest that last-hour cuts be given to those members of the team who have classes at that time. It is rather absurd for the whole student body to be inconvenienced because five or six men can't get out on the field until a quarter before five o'clock. The Clarkson game this Friday will be a hard one to win, and the team will need all the support it can get from the students—but even the most ardent fan will find it difficult to get enthusiastic in the closing innings on an empty stomach!

The Freshman Golf Menace

Hamilton College, we are informed by the World Almanac, is a small, not-too-heavily endowed institution of less than 500 students, over whose sacred inner and outer sanctums presides one Frederic Carlos Ferry, a graduate of Williams. Elsewhere we learn, (from various sources which we cannot specifically locate at the present writing), that despite the fact that it is merely entering its one hundred and twenty-second year of buoyant youth, it has already become heavily endowed with a manifold assortment of traditions, both practical and theoretical, yet traditions nevertheless, and in the full sense of the word, whatever that may be.

Disgressing for a moment, we find that the game of golf is quite a bit older than Hamilton College. Founded somewhere back in the sandy, bunkered past at St. Andrews, wher our foolhardy forefathers braved the wind-swept moors of Scotland with a not-quite-circular object made of compressed feathers, and a gnarled but polished hickory stick, it too has borne up well under the burden of the years, having gathered its share of tradition, and has actually settled itself at Hamilton College, though somewhat unfortunately, for the present.

The trick of fate which has linked our noble hilltop with the less noble, but none the less educational game of golf, was, frankly speaking, an insidious one. Not that it hasn't afforded a well-kept golf-course, a golf-team which springs into action periodically during the non-election years, and an opportunity for the poor English student to increase a deficient vocabulary, to say nothing of the pleasure which some of us have actually gleaned from its sloping fairways (and tees). But, gentlemen, it has also put the idea into the collective head of the Physical Training Department that the freshmen should learn to play golf.

Not so long ago we remember Mr. Prettyman reminding us that we should learn to play golf if only for the pleasure which would be afforded us in future years through a knowledge of the game. So far, fine, and most commendable. But here's the rub. Suddenly of a spring afternoon the golf course becomes littered with balls flying in all directions more varied than those of the turf upon which aforesaid balls had been resting but a moment before. Once out of sight of the instructors, would-be and never-will-be freshman golfers become engaged in all sorts of calisthenics which would make a girls' field hockey team blush with shame. And, to add insult to injury, these charging hellions of '37 are to be given the right of way.

We do not believe that freshmen should be entirely excluded from the course. But we do believe that the so-called "organized" classes should either be entirely excluded, or cut down to a much smaller number per day.

After 4:30 in the afternoon the course is crowded with enthusiasts up until and after supper. Those whose afternoons, from 1:30 to 4:30, are free of classes, are forced to spend practically the whole of that period in circumnavigating nine holes because of the obstructions set up by the freshman Physical Training classes. The very fact that we are on the course goes to show, in some measure, that we are playing because we want to, and because we enjoy it, and are not obligated to anyone except ourselves. But we do not enjoy sitting on one tee all afternoon, watching freshmen come and go, seemingly without end; but sit we must, for after the last bell of the afternoon rings, the possibilities for a fast, unhampered hound, are small indeed.

There are a number of remedies which might be introduced. The classes could, for instance, be divided into three groups, each group playing actual golf once a week during its scheduled period, while the other two were being taught the fundamentals of the swing, etc. Daily playing for a score is an obvious detriment to good playing at the early stage which the majority of the freshmen are entering, and as long as they are supposed to be learning golf for the actual pleasure it will later afford them, why should they not learn itwell, if learn it they must? Although we fully realize that it is impossible for each group to be accompanied by a member of the Physical Training staff, we nevertheless believe that some reform is necessary. We also realize that there are always numerous obstacles standing ready to bar the progress of any constructive reform, but we do not believe that, in the present case, these obstacles are unsurmountable. However, if the various coaches believe the opposite to be true, and are firmly convinced that their system is the best and only one, we should like to hear from them, and we stand ready to suggest a complete and beneficial reform, if they are but willing to listen.

F. N. M., '36

The Group System

What we have to say is just another of those what-we-would-do-if-we-were-running-Hamilton-College editorials, and furthermore, it is on a favorite subject of that type of editorial—schedules.

We are only too well acquainted with our group system which, if we take certain courses freshman year, makes us do a lot of funny things sophomore year, to say nothing of our attempts to straighten the mess out junior and senior year. For instance, if we begin a language freshman year, we must continue it for two; if we take a science course freshman year, we must labor in labs for three. One year of language, of course, is of little value, but this business of requiring three years of science, simply because we happened to take some freshman year, seems to us unnecessary.

We are not a scientist. We are seeking an A.B. wa have dabbled in the sciences freshman and sophomore year, we submitted one year of science for admission, and we have had enough. Junior year schedule cards are due in a few days, and there are many courses not open to underclassmen, such as ethics, economics, or music, which we might like to take. Why must we make room on our schedule for another elementary science course?

Hill Faculty Members to Be Interested in Various Activities during Coming Summer

By Rudyard E. Eldridge, '36

A survey of the Hamilton College faculty made during the week of May 14 has revealed to Hamilton Life the manner in which most of the Hill professors and their families are planning to spend the summer months. For the majority, the survey reveals, the months of July, August, and September will mean an opportunity for the faculty members to continue studying in their respective lines, to write, to travel, and to rest.

Biological problems in which little original research has ever been instituted will occupy Dr. Butcher after the close of college, their endeavors being conducted largely in the college laboratories. The cause of the hair cycles of various animals will be studied in detail by Dr. Butcher. The factors underlying the, to the lay mind, phenomenal growth and shedding of animal hair are questions about which little is known save from insufficient clinical knowledge. Dr. Butcher has hopes of not only studying the underlying factors, but of determining a means of stimulating and controlling them as well.

Investigating the conditions of diabetes and glycosuria which exist in all vertebrates when insulin is absent in the blood, Dr. Hess will endeavor to determine the cause for the degeneration of the Islets of Langerhans, groups of cells in the pancreases of animals which are responsible for the secretion of insulin in the blood stream. In addition, his research will include a study of the factors influencing the regeneration of the Islets of Langerhans and the effects of administering liver extract to animals in which the red blood corpuscles are formed in the spleen and not in the bone marrow, as in man.

Summer will find both members of the geology department at work determining the structure of rock and in mapping certain regions. Dr. Dale, who has for years been employed during the college recess by the New York State Geological Survey, will start an investigation of the rocks in the Oriskany Quadrangle, similar to the one he recently completed on the Adirondack region. The results of his research, which will include the district around Hamilton College, when finally completed, will be published in an educational bulletin by the University of the State of New York.

Sponsored by the Geological Society of America and also by Princeton University, Dr. Rouse will again devote two months to a study of the volcanic rock of the Absaroka Mountains, near Yellowstone Park, in Wyoming. Possibly aided by W. H. Parsons, '33, he will be starting a two year survey which, when completed, will be featured in a pamphlet entitled "The Geology of the Yellowstone, Beartooth, Big Horn Region."

For the most part, the activities of the remainder of the faculty are far from definite. Although few would admit having formed final plans, it was discovered that at least six of the professors have intentions, at least, of traveling.

Mr. Gelas and his wife have definitely made arrangements to visit Mr. Gelas' mother, who lives in Grenoble, France. Tentatively, Mr. Super plans to head south to Mexico again, while Mr. and Mrs. Prettyman may "take a trip to the World's Fair which we didn't get last summer." New Orleans will be the destination of the Perrines as soon as commencement is over, whence they will visit their home in central Illinois.

Lacrosse Team Loses To Syracuse J. V.'s

In a fast but clean game, Hamilton's first lacrosse team in 35 years went down to a 10-1 defeat before the Syracuse J. V.'s Thursday afternoon on the freshman football field.

Hamilton's lone point came in the first quarter, when Wesenberg scored on a pass from Massoth at 8.50, but Syracuse had already started its attack with two goals, the first by Adler unassisted, and the second by Gallow assisted by Adler, the enemy's fast and handy in-home.

In the second frame, Hamilton allowed the invaders four tallies, two by Adler and two by Perkins, the last one two seconds before the gun on a pass from Adler. Sharpless did fine work in the cagefi making seven saves, and Doig, at center, Hamilton's only experienced player, managed two shots at the opponents' net.

Hamilton again allowed four scores in the third period, but all of them came in the first five minutes of play. The first was a fast shot by Kissen, who gathered a clean pass from Gallow from behind the Hamilton cage in the opening minute of the quarter. Gallow, Syracuse's sturdy outhome, again assisted for the second point, and scored the third goal on a pass from Adler. Porter accounted for the fourth tally at 5:03, and the Hamilton defense then tightened to allow only one more score for the game, which came at 7:53 in the last quarter.

In the last fifteen minutes, the play was mostly in front of the enemy net, Massoth, Doig and Wesenberg making most of the shots. The Hamilton team showed up well throughout the game in spite of its inexperience. The only penalty was on Wesenberg for pushing from behind.

GRADUATION, it's been said, is more important to merchants than to the graduates themselves. They (the merchants) seem to make too much fuss over them (the graduates), so that when the fourth week in June has come and gone, a fellow can breathe relief and say "Thank God, THAT'S over with." But how proud he is of that little gift in his pocket, which someone thoughtfully purchased in ROEDEL'S, and presented him at Graduation.

And sure enough—he was delivered to the Theta Delt House.

Preacher Delivers Interesting Talk

"Young men of today in this crowded and hostile world, must have foresight and determination if they are to be prepared to make a success of their careers when they find a chance to do so," was the substance of the brief but interesting sermon delivered by the Rev. Carroll Perry, D.D., of Ipswich, Mass., in Chapel Sunday morning. He emphasized his point by relating the story of Zacchaeus, the hated tax-collector of Jericho, who, upon hearing that Jesus was coming to the city, determined to see Him for himself by climbing a tree—and was rewarded by Christ's staying at his home.

"Just as the crowd which gathered around Jesus made Zacchaeus feel small and insignificant, for he was small in stature, so does the overcrowded and unwelcome world make the average young man think himself a small and useless particle," he continued. "For just as Zacchaeus was carried on by the determination to see Christ himself, and had the foresight to station himself where the procession was sure to pass, so must the young men of today prepare themselves for the time when the world is more friendly to them."

He pointed out that when the guns of Lee's army threatened the city of Washington, Abraham Lincoln had insisted that the Capitol's dome continue to be riveted. Similarly can the young man who is temporarily unemployed "keep on riveting" by continuing to learn and to accomplish something definite. Thus, when he is forced to view the world from the outside, he can be "stiffening his character right at home."

In conclusion, Dr. Perry said that the reason why Jesus had picked out such an unpopular character with whom to stay was because of this evidence of "interest and determination to see for himself." Likewise, the individual is his own judge of his success, and by striving to improve himself, he will be able to satisfy himself and the critical outside world.

McKinney Speaks at German Club Meeting

"The German Mind in Science" was the topic of discussion at a meeting of the German Club, held on Wednesday evening, May 16, in the Chemistry Laboratory. George W. Waters, '35, was in charge of the meeting, the program of which consisted of three speakers and a demonstration by Dr. A. E. McKinney.

The undergraduate speakers included Harold Bengloff, '34, Herman A. Speh, '36, and Clinton I. Read, '35. Bengloff spoke on the subject "The German Mind in Biology", and Speh discussed the contributions of the Germans in physics and mathematics.

At the close of the program, Dr. McKinney gave a demonstration on the general subject, "Luminescence." Special thanks were extended to Prof. Hauch for his activity in behalf of the club.
